<Reasons for revisions>

The business environment during the first six months of the fiscal year ending March 31, 2015 including the economies in the U.S. and Japan was on a recovery trend, and also in the electronics industries the automobile market as well as smart phones and tablet PCs production in China and Asia made a steady performance. Furthermore, due to effects of a depreciation of the yen, net sales have exceeded the original forecast. Regarding profits, operating income has exceeded the original forecast due to an increase of sales and an improvement of profit ratio. Ordinary income and net income are also expected to exceed their forecasts due to an appraisal gain according to a depreciation of the yen. Under these circumstances, the company has revised its forecast data of consolidated business results for the first six months of the fiscal year ending March 31, 2015 as above. Forecast data for the entire year has not been finalized. The company will make it available on the day of announcement of the second quarter results that is scheduled on November 6, 2014.
