<Reasons for revisions>

About second quarter results for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2018, sales have exceeded the forecast due to steady automotive, industrial equipment and game console markets, furthermore, the foreign exchange rate was better than expected due to depreciation of the yen and had a positive impact on sales. Operating income has expected to exceed the forecast over 35% due to the effect of increase in sales and decrease in fixed cost from expectation. Owing to these things, ordinary income has expected to exceed the forecast over 50% and profit attributable to owners of parent has expected to exceed the forecast over 38%.

About forecast data for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2018, we and our subsidiary companies will consider the second half forecast data, and make it available to announce on the day of announcement of the second quarter results that is scheduled on November 1, 2017.
